

CV Amir Haxhikadrija

From Gjakova, however since becoming a student he moved to Prishtina where currently lives and works. Amir's areas of expertise include: Advocacy/Lobbying for public policies; Youth in post-conflict; International human rights - standards and mechanisms; Human rights of women – equal opportunities; Development of health systems and policies with an emphasis on critical assessment of current and future policy options and issues; Cost analysis and cost effectiveness analysis in health care (comparing the costs and outcomes of competing health care programmes to observe which programmes represent the best 'value for money'); The health state value elicitation methods (e.g. rating scale, time trade-off, standard gamble); The economics and politics of pharmaceutical markets and Clinical work - General practice.

Amir graduated in 2004 from Medical Faculty, University of Prishtina and his Postgraduate is Master of Science (MSc) from London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE) and London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine (LSHTM) in London, United Kingdom.

His current position is Consultant at Prime Minister's Office for Kosovo Development and Strategy Plan. Prior to this he worked for SOROS Foundation as External Collaborator of "Civil society – government partnership". During 2006 he was also Senior National Consultant – Assessment of Youth Friendly Health Services in Kosovo for UNFPA. He closely worked with Parliamentary Commission on Health & NDI as Local Expert for Monitoring the Implementation of Health Law in Kosovo. Amir's publications and academic writings on health issues are: Assessment of Youth Friendly Health Services in Kosovo (UNFPA); Hazardous Child Labour in Kosovo (ILO/IPEC); HIV prevention programs in Croatia: Are they reaching the youth? At what cost? (UNFPA); Introducing Varicella Vaccination in Australia: Cost-Utility Analysis (LSE); More doesn't always mean better – Good health at low cost (LSE/LSHTM); Is Globalization good for your health? (LSHTM) and Improving access to pharmaceutical care in developing countries – a case study from Sierra Leone (LSE). Whereas on youth are: School student representation in Kosovo (UNICEF); Young people speak out – (ID 21); Precious Resources – Adolescents in the Reconstruction of Sierra Leone (principal researcher and writing contributions) (Women's Commission for Refugee Women and Children); Promoting Kosovar Adolescent / Youth Protection and Capacities and Youth-identified Problems and Solutions – case study. Amir also won two awards so far which are Voices of Courage Award 2004 from WCRWC – New York, USA and International Reebok Human Rights award in 2002